

Web terms of use

The access to and use of this website, including its subdomains, associated websites, mobile applications and extranets (each a “Site” and collectively, the “Sites”) constitutes acceptance by you or the entity you represent of the following terms and conditions of use (the “Terms of Use”).

If you do not agree to these Terms of Use, you may not access or use the Sites. Additional terms (including age requirements) (the “Special Terms”) may apply to and govern the access to and use of specific Materials or Site Features (as defined below).

For Social Media Terms of Use please see here.

Copyright © United Nations Development Programme

The United Nations Development Programme (“UNDP”) maintains the Sites as a courtesy to those who may choose to access the Sites (“Users”). The information presented herein is for informative purposes only. Unless otherwise specified in any Special Terms, UNDP grants permission to Users to visit the Sites and to download and copy information, documents and materials (collectively, “Materials”) from the Sites for the User’s personal, non-commercial use, without any right to resell or redistribute them or to compile or create derivative works therefrom, subject to these Terms of Use, and also subject to more specific restrictions that may apply to specific Material within the Sites. The Sites are administered by UNDP.

The User may need to register and/or create a User account to access to or use certain sections of the Sites, Materials or Site Features. The User may never use another User's account without permission. By registering or creating a User account, the User represents and warrants that (i) the User is of legal age or possesses legal parental or guardian consent, and is fully able and competent to abide by and comply with these Terms of Use; and (ii) if the User represents a legal entity, the User has authority to bind such legal entity to these Terms of Use. The User is responsible for keeping the password and other relevant login information confidential, and shall inform UNDP if, at any point, the User considers that his or her password or login information has been compromised and/or is being misused by someone else, and shall take such action as is required and/or is requested by UNDP to prevent such misuse. The User is responsible for all activities conducted under his or her User account.

Unless expressly stated otherwise, the findings, interpretations and conclusions expressed in the Materials on the Sites are those of the various UNDP staff members, consultants and advisers to UNDP who prepared the work and do not necessarily represent the views of UNDP, or its Member States. The designations employed and the presentation of material in the Sites do not imply the expression of any opinion on the part of UNDP concerning the legal or development status of any territory, country, city, or area or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers or boundaries.

Third party content displayed in the Sites may only be used subject to its owner's consent or as otherwise permitted by applicable law, as the case may be. Nothing in these Terms of Use shall be deemed to confer any third-party rights or benefits in any such content.

Certain mobile applications offered directly or indirectly by UNDP can be downloaded from third party "app stores" including, without limitation, iTunes and Google Play, and, as such, they are subject to the separate terms of the respective third-party service providers. It is your responsibility to check the privacy policies and terms of service and usage of all third-party sites, stores, and services prior to downloading or using the UNDP mobile applications.

Technical Specifications/ Accessibility

Content can be exported and/or downloaded directly from your web browser using the following open formats: PDF, HTML, and PNG.

UNDP and its partners intend to make the Data to Policy Navigator as accessible as possible to the widest possible audience. The site should be able to be navigated with accessibility applications, browsers options, and tools. Users may still find some limitations in terms of accessibility; in which case you are encouraged to report problems to contact us: <https://www.undp.org/contact-us>.

In order to access the Data to Policy Navigator, you require a supported web browser: Google Chrome (latest version), Edge (latest version), Firefox (latest version), Safari (latest version). The Data to Policy Navigator may also be accessed through latest versions of mobile apps and operating systems, including but not limited to Android (latest version) and iOS (latest version).

You may access the Data to Policy Navigator and its content through this link: Data to Policy Navigator.

Users may then follow the following guide:

- Navigate through the pages using the top ribbon.
- For the Navigator, select Navigator from the ribbon and choose from the pages in the step-by-step guide. Navigate from step to step using the ribbon under the top of the page or choose an individual topic of interest.
- For the Use Cases, select use cases from the ribbon and navigate to a use case of interest, and select to read. Filter specific regions or sectors using the drop-down menus.

Sites features and submissions

Disclaimers and indemnification by user

General

UNDP periodically adds, changes, improves, and/or updates the Sites, the Materials on the Sites, and the Site Features without notice.

UNDP reserves its exclusive right in its sole discretion to:

- (i) alter, limit or discontinue the Sites, any Materials or Site Features in any respect; and
- (ii) modify these general Terms of Use or any Special Terms.

UNDP shall have no obligation to take the needs of any User into consideration in connection therewith nor to alert any User of such actions.

UNDP reserves the right to deny in its sole discretion any User access to the Sites or any portion thereof without notice and to suspend, revoke or stop providing User accounts if the User does not comply with the Terms of Use or any Special Terms, and remove, for any reason and without notice, any Submission.

UNDP's name, emblem and its abbreviation are the exclusive property of UNDP and are protected under international law. Their unauthorized use is prohibited, and they may not be reproduced or used in any manner without UNDP's prior written permission.

The mention or omission of specific companies, their products or brand names on the Sites does not imply any endorsement thereof on the part of UNDP.

The Users shall not remove, obscure, or alter any legal notices displayed in or along with the Materials or Site Features.

UNDP reserves the right to seek all remedies available by law for any violation of these Terms of Use, including any rights of UNDP in the Sites, the Materials, the Site Features and the Submissions. No waiver by UNDP of any provision of these Terms of Use shall be binding except as set forth in writing and signed by its duly authorized representative.

These Terms of Use and any dispute arising therefrom shall be exclusively governed by principles of international law, to the exclusion of any single national or sub-national system of law.

Any dispute, controversy or claim arising out of or relating to these Terms of Use, or the breach, termination or invalidity hereof, or to the use of the Sites, the Materials and Site Features by the User or any content available therein and their particular terms of use shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules then in force. The arbitral tribunal shall be empowered to order:

(i) the return or destruction of goods or any property, whether tangible or intangible, or of any information provided hereunder; or

(ii) that any other protective measures be taken with respect to the goods, services or any other property, whether tangible or intangible, or of any confidential information provided hereunder, as appropriate, all in accordance with the authority of the arbitral tribunal pursuant to Article 26 ('the Interim Measures') and Article 34 ('the Form and Effect of the Award') of the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules.

The arbitral tribunal shall have no authority to award punitive damages. UNDP and the User shall be bound by any arbitration award rendered as a result of such arbitration as the final adjudication of any such dispute.

To the extent that there exists more than one language version of these Terms of Use and there is any inconsistency between the versions, the English version shall always prevail.

Nothing herein shall constitute or be considered to be a limitation upon, or a waiver of, the privileges and immunities of UNDP or the United Nations, which are specifically reserved.

Web privacy

Your privacy on the Internet is of utmost importance to the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). This privacy statement describes UNDP's policy concerning the gathering and sharing of visitors' information through the UNDP web site. It applies to all "UNDP sites" – that is, all sites within the "UNDP.org" domain name. By visiting the UNDP website you are accepting the practices described in this policy. This policy complies with the UNDP Privacy Policy.

What information does UNDP collect?

Normal website usage

In general, you can browse the UNDP site without telling us who you are or revealing any personal information about yourself. The only information we gather during general browsing is from standard server logs. These include your IP (Internet Protocol) address, domain name, browser type, operating system, and information such as the web site that referred you to us, the files you downloaded, the pages you visit, and the dates/times of those visits.

Collection of personally identifiable information

If you register for a newsletter, log on to certain UNDP sites, request information, provide feedback, apply for a job, join a discussion group or join an electronic mailing list, you will be asked to provide personal information such as your name, postal address and e-mail address. This information is collected only with your knowledge and permission and is kept in various UNDP databases. If you are making a donation, you may be asked to provide your credit card details.

UNDP sites with specific requirements to collect personal information may publish a privacy policy specific for that site. In these cases, the site-specific policies will be complementary to this general UNDP privacy policy.

Joining electronic discussion groups may mean that other participants of the discussion group (including non-UNDP employees) will see personal information that you have volunteered. For open discussion groups, this information will be public.

Use of cookies

A cookie is a piece of data stored on the user's hard drive containing information about the user. Usage of a cookie is in no way linked to any personally identifiable information while on the site.

By setting a cookie, UNDP will remember you the next time you visit the site and therefore UNDP will not have to ask questions that you have already answered (like address information).

You are always free to decline our cookies if your browser permits, although in that case you may not be able to use certain features on the site and may be required to re-enter information more frequently to use certain services on the site.
